Premium Filtered Water for Chicago Winery

Quench Installs Vero Water System for restaurant and event spaces

The Challenge:

- Seeking a cost-effective solution for unlimited premium filtered still and sparkling water
- The Chicago Winery is focused on recycling and eliminating single-use waste from their waste stream

The Solution:

- The Chicago Winery installed a Vero +4 still and sparkling water dispenser and a Quench Q5 filtered water cooler for one fixed monthly fee
- Use of all single-use plastic water bottles was eliminated in favor of eco-friendly reusable glass bottles

“Not only does Vero Water help us reduce single-use plastic waste, but the quality of the water itself is exceptional.”

— Chef Andrew Graves

Increased awareness of Chicago Winery's focus on sustainability

Reduced costs and single-use plastic bottled water waste for both still and sparkling water

Serving delicious tasting filtered still and sparkling water to over 1,700 customers a month

The Story:

Chicago Winery, a 2,000-sq. ft. boutique metropolitan winery with on-site restaurant, LIVA, is a premier event space in Chicago’s Near North Side. The Chicago Winery and celebrated Chef Andrew Graves have one goal – a cuisine and beverage experience that pairs with all of life’s moments.

Chef Graves has a passion for locally sourced ingredients and believes that the art of hospitality and sustainability go hand-in-hand. With the help of a Quench Hospitality Water Expert, he chose two Quench water systems, the premium Vero 4+ and the Q5, to be able to offer unlimited complimentary filtered still and sparkling water to every guest.

By choosing Quench, Chicago Winery has eliminated the purchase of all single-use still and sparkling water bottles for their LIVA customers and event attendees, saving thousands of bottles from their waste stream a year.

“The positive feedback from guests about the taste and quality of Vero Water constantly reaffirms our choice. Our serving team has found that when guests experience the quality of the sparkling, it opens the door for us to proudly share our commitment to sustainability.”

— Justine Pugliese, Restaurant Manager
